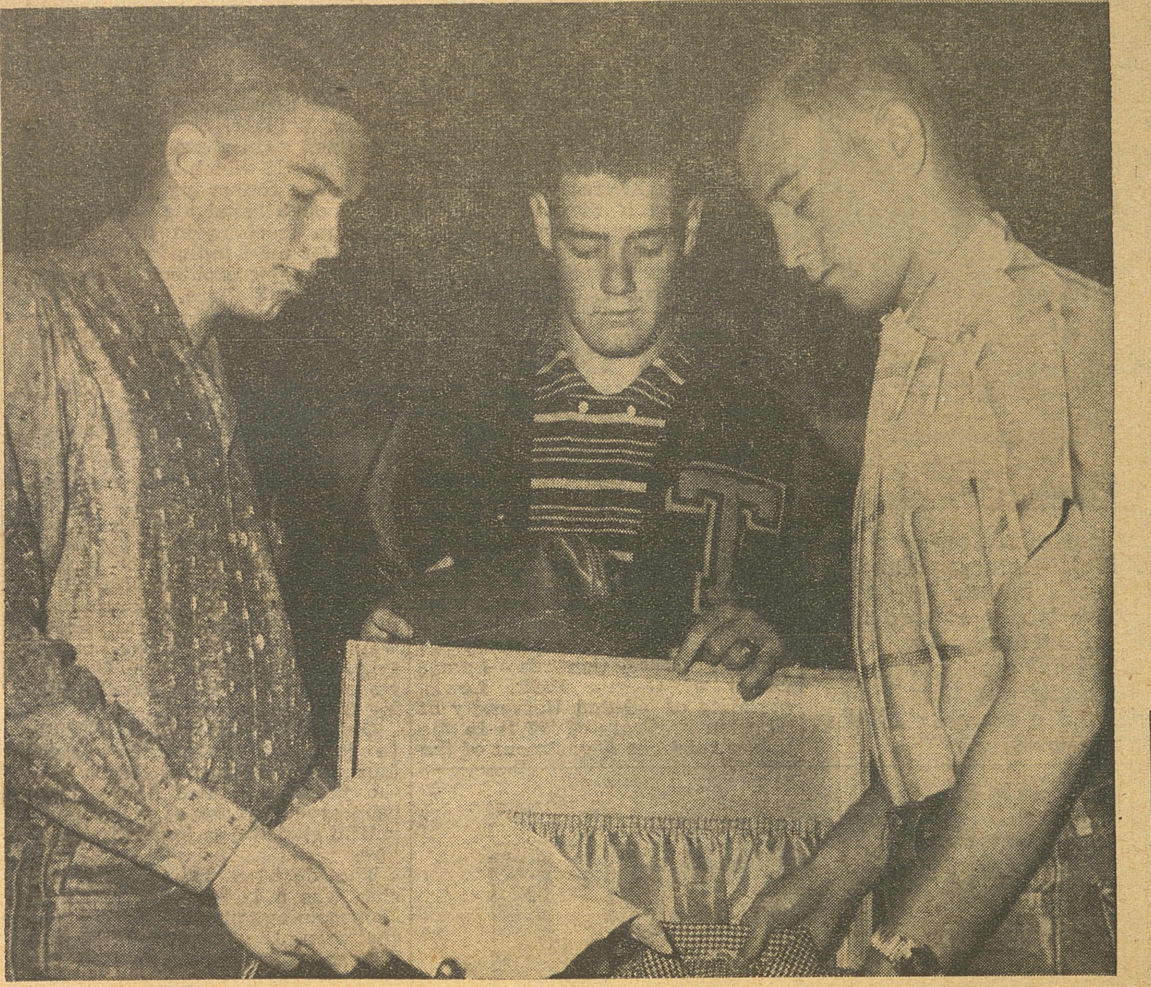
54 Board Plane For Boise



IDAHO BOUND — Richard Staton, James Shaw, and Ned Jolly busily pack as they prepare to board the plane that took them to Boise, Idaho for the National Junior College football game. The game will be played tomorrow at 3:15 p.m. Tyler time.

Tribe Plays Tomorrow For NJCAA Crown

Twenty-one persons besides the 33 football players boarded the chartered 54-passenger Constellation at 8 a.m. yesterday for Boise, Idaho.

The Apaches will face the undefeated Boise Junior College team at 2:15 Thanksgiving Day for the National Junior College Athletic Association championship.

Coach Floyd Wagstaff was accompanied on the trip by his wife and their daughters, Betsy and Becky. Coach James (Babe) Hallmark was accompanied by his daughter, Connie.

Sports writers Sam Blair of the Dallas Morning News and Mack Owens of the Tyler Courier-Times and Morning Telegraph were among those making the trip.

Others were Dean E. M. Potter, Brady Gentry, A. Y. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Pinkerton, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Tunnell, Frank Martin, Freddie Head, Jim Bailey, Joe Floyd, Lawrence Jackson and Don Keasler.

Since the Apache Belles and band did not make the trip to Idaho, the football team will not have the cheering section they have had in all other regular season games.

Fullback Larry Corley said, "We are going to miss the fine support we have had all year but if we get to go to the 'Little Rose Bowl' we are looking forward to a lot of support in California."

After the balmy days Tyler has had the past week, the zero weather in Idaho will be an abrupt change.

Quarterback Jimmy Sizemore said, "I don't think it will affect our team too much though, because we want so much to win. While we're playing, we'll think of warmer weather — like they have in California.

Only four of the team know what zero weather is. Ted and Ned Jolly, Jim Leroy and Sizemore are the four familiar with playing in frigid weather.

The Jolly twins are from Phillips, in the Texas Panhandle, and Leroy and Sizemore are from Rogersville, Tenn.

"It will be a great experience for all the boys and I think everyone is looking forward to the game. We'll have a lot of fun and we are going up there to win."

Thursday, Friday Are Thanksgiving Holidays

Tomorrow and Friday will be observed as official Thanksgiving holidays for both the day and evening divisions.

According to Dean E. M. Potter, all buildings will be closed Nov. 26 and 27.

For day college the holiday begins when students get out of classes Wednesday. It begins for night students Thursday morning. Evening classes will meet Wednesday night.

The holiday means four days of no school, which will enable out-of-state students or those who live some distances from Tyler to go home.

Students, Faculty Work On Production Of 'Amahl'

Most of the cast and personnel working in the folk opera "Amahl and the Night Visitors", are TJC students. Approximately 23 students and four faculty members will participate in its production.

The fourth annual performance presented in the East Texas Symphony Orchestra subscription series will be Thursday night, Dec. 18.

The 12-year-old son of Texas Eastern School of Music director, Joseph Kirshbaum, Ralph will sing the role of Amahl. Margaret Peterson will depicit his mother. Both were featured in last year's performance of the work by Menotti.

Kirshbaum, conductor and musical director of the symphony, is producer of the Christmas opera.

Others presented in the play are Fred Palmer, tenor a sophomore in the School of Music; Fred Watkins, a sophomore who will sing the baritone role of King Melchoir; and John Bass as King Balthazar.

Bass, a former student at TJC, is now attending Southern Methodist University School of Music.

Portraying sheperds and villagers will be some 20 members of the Singing Apaches. In addition, there will be 23 members of the Symphony Orchestra in the pit at Wise Auditorium.

Featured as dancers are two students of the Ballet Academy, Kay Tomlin, a TJC freshman and Lynn Fite, a senior at John Tyler High

Serving as co-directors of Amahl are two members of the TJC faculty—Lawrence Birdsong, instructor in speech and drama and Dr. Jeane Browne, public speaking instructor.

John Hunter, choir director, is training the chorus selected from the college choir.

Drama students will have charge of staging and lighting.

The opera plot is set in a humble hut where Amahl, the 12-year-old crippled boy and his mother live in poverty.

But his enthusiasm for living is not dampened by his poverty or his being crippled. The story opens with Amahl's eagerly looking forward to a brighter tomorrow. That night three wise men, clad in royal garments seeking refuge and rest from their journey, stop at Amahl's house.

Thanksgiving Service To Be Held Today

An all-college Thanksgiving service will be held today at the activity period in Wise Auditorium under the sponsorship of the student council.

John R. Bently, Rector of Christ Church, Episcopal, will deliver the Thanksgiving sermon.

Under the direction of John Hunter, the Singing Apaches will open the service with "introit," a call to worship. Ernest Shinn, Baptist ministerial student, will give the invocation. A congregational hymn, "Come Ye Thankful People Come," will follow.

The program will also include a Scripture Reading and a Thanksgiving Litany followed by a choral amen. The choir will also sing an anthem, "We Gather" and the benediction.

Students Know Henderson For Patience, Courtesy

By DAYLE SMITH

A soft-spoken instructor walks into his classroom about thirty seconds before the final bell.

A few seconds after that bell has rung, he begins the roll call of more than 150 students—and the class is underway.

The instructor is J. C. Henderson, head of the department of science and instructor in chemistry and biology, known for his extensive knowledge, patience, and sense of humor.

A graduate of Rice University, Henderson has taught biology and chemistry at TJC for 27 years. Before he came here, he taught at the University of California, where he had received his MA degree.

Dr. Vaughn's Opinion

A former student of Henderson's and now a Tyler physician, Jim Vaughn, MD. called Henderson "one of the best science teachers I've ever had." Dr. Vaughn received his BS at the University of Texas, his MD from the Medical School at Galveston and did two years of graduate work at Tulane.

"Because of the foundation I received in Mr. Henderson's classes," Dr. Vaughn continued, "I was better prepared for my junior year at the University than those students who had taken their first years at the university."

Students in Henderson's inorganic chemistry classes, as well as those in biology and organic chemistry agree that he expects a great deal from them. They describe their classes as "difficult, but very well organized."

Others agree that the work "is hard, but that it is one of their "most interesting" courses. One summed up the class feeling as "If you get out of his class, you know you've learned something."

Henderson's patience and quiet courtesy also create comments among his students. One freshman said that he "had never known Mr. Henderson to be sarcastic," and another remarked that he doesn't "mind explaining again when I'm confused."

On only two occasions does Henderson's patience wear thin. His two pet peeves are students who yawn in his face during a lecture and those who are five to 10 minutes late to his class.

He once gently remarked that his class was not "a ladies' tea, where you can come anytime between 8:25 and 9:19."

Dry Wit Enlivens Class

His dry wit often enlivens lecture sessions. Tracing the journeys of a parasitical worm, he re-

Remember Your Bargain!

An Editorial

With only hours remaining, students must hurry if they expect to purchase a yearbook.

Apache yearbook sales will close today at noon, and this will be the last opportunity for students to buy.

The Apache staff has gone to a lot of trouble to give the student body a good yearbook this year. But students have let the staff down!

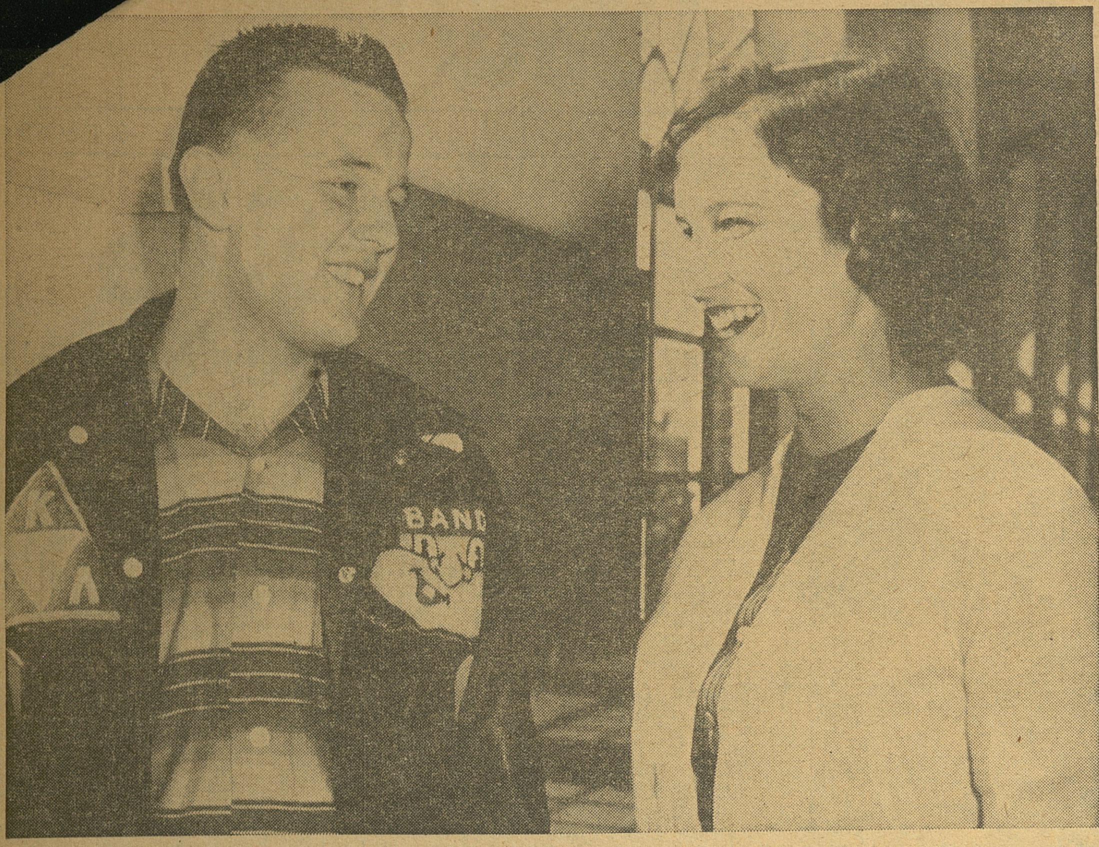
When class pictures were taken free of charge this fall, students were told that 500 books had to be sold in order to keep the Apache out of the red.

Everyone was willing to accept the free picture, but only 291 students had kept their end of the bargain as The Pow Wow went to press Monday.

Not only did the staff allow free class pictures, they also provided for an additional pose to be used on students' permanent files in the registrar's office.

The 167-page yearbook turned out by the staff last year was a credit to the Apache name. And from all reports, this year's annual will hold up the tradition past Apache staff members began.

It is now time for the student body to come across with their part of the deal. Contact staff members before noon today.



ALL-COLLEGE FAVORITES—Jimmy Phipps and Betty Campbell, both sophomores from Tyler, are the 1958 campus favorites. They will reign in the Apache yearbook personalities' section as well as on campus. Phipps, 19-year-old BBA major ,is also president of the band, member of the student council, and a member of Kappa Sigma Lambda fraternity. A 1957 graduate of Tyler High School, he was president of his senior class. Betty, 19 - year - old elementary education major, is also this year's beauty queen of the choir, Apache cheerleader elected last spring, and secretary of the Future Teachers' organization. She is a 1957 graduate of Tyler High School, where she was flag bearer in the Blue Brigade and a member of the a cappella choir for two years.

Mrs. Mary Wallace Has Part In Writing Book

Procedures of the counseling methods at Tyler Junior College will be discussed in a book soon to be released. The volume will be entitled "Introduction to Guidance" by Dr. and Mrs. Lester D. Crow.

Crow is professor of Education at Brooklyn College, Brooklyn, New York. This is the second edition of "Introduction to Guidance."

Mrs. Mary Wallace, at the request of Dr. Crow, sent copies of a number of things including a paper on "A Continuing Practice in Counseling in Tyler Junior College" for information for Crow's book.

Recently she received another letter asking if they might have permission to use this material in the book. She sent an affirmative answer after discussing the letter with President H. E. Jenkins who thought it would be "quite a compliment to have our material used in their books."

Counseling at TJC begins before students enroll. Faculty groups go to various schools in the area and meet with graduating seniors. On "Career Day," high school seniors attend special counseling sessions.

Upon enrollment, they take a series of six examinations. Results of these tests are used as the basis for two years of individual counseling in study habits and personal problems.

Mrs. Wallace, director of guidance and counseling, has an office in Room 213 which the nucleus of the entire counseling program.

Although students are turned over to teachers in their major field, for most individual counseling, all major problems are referred to Mrs. Wallace.

Jim Powell Heads New Ex-Journalism Association

Jim Powell became the first president of the Ex-journalism Students' Association in an organizational meeting Homecoming night. Powell, graduate of '56 and University of Texas graduate of '58, is in the advertising department of Brookshire Food Stores in Tyler.

Vice-president of the newly organized association is Lamar Lewis of Galena Park. Lewis, graduate of '55 and University of Houston graduate of '57 is in the public relations department of the Prudential Life Insurance Company at Houston. Bob Bowman, graduate of '54, was elected secretary-treasurer. Bowman is city editor of the Lufkin Daily News.

The association will be professional in nature and limited to graduates of TJC in journalistic professions or journalism majors working toward a journalism degree. Annual dues are $1. The association will meet yearly during TJC homecoming.

Only a handful will be eligible to join the organization since journalism began at TJC only six years ago, and there have been several times as many journalism students as journalism majors.

The decision to organize the club was a last-minute affair in Homecoming plans. Acting co-chairmen, Jim Powell and Harold Reagan, were unable to find the addresses of all eligible members.

Six charter members are on the roll. Other than the three elected officers, present were Billy Portwood, teacher at Grand Saline; Gayle Essary of National Homes; and Glenn Isbell, student at North Texas State Teachers College.

In order to complete the roster for next year, anyone knowing of an eligible member is asked to send his name and address to Bobby Bowman, City Editor, Lufkin Daily News, Lufkin, Tex.

Barton Is President Of Pre-Clinical Nurses

Sara Barton, Texas Eastern School of Nursing student from Kilgore, was elected president of the pre-clinical student nurses at a recent organizational meeting.

The 44-member class discussed plans for the year and elected other officers.

Others elected were Peggy Morgan, Tyler, vice-president; Barbara Burditt, Judson, secretary; Jimmie Thompson, Carthage, treasurer; Ann Simms, Tyler, parliamentarian; Peggy Goulden, Marshall, reporter. Committee chairmen are Judy Dunbar from Judson and Mary Lou Harrison from Mineola.

Psychiatrist Discusses Three Basic Concepts In Personality Growth

Sixty-five persons heard a Tyler psychiatrist, A. J. Bankhead, in his first lecture discuss the developing of one's personality in relation to the three basic personality concepts.

Day students are invited to attend this series of Tuesday night lectures. This was the first in a series of four two-hour sessions on "Psychology of Personality Development." Classes are being held in the main building, Room 115.

Dr. Bankhead discussed Id, Ego, and Super Ego as the three concepts which determine one's personality.

Id, the pleasure-selfish concept which gives energy or drive, is primarily the personality of a newborn child, he said.

Super Ego, Dr. Bankhead explained, is first recognizable at the age of approximately 18 months and is commonly known as one's conscience or the factor which distinguishes right from wrong.

Ego, recognizable about the first year of childhood, is the concept which keeps Id and Super Ego in balance.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—The five members of the Association of Texas Colleges are from left to right President H. E. Jenkins, immediate past president of the association; Law Sone, president of Texas Wesleyan College and president of the Texas Association of Colleges; W. Wayland Moody, president of San Antonio Junior College and first vice-president of the association; Dean R. C. Goodwin, Texas Technological College and second vice-president of the association; and W. B. McDaniel, McMurry College and secretary-treasurer of the association. Dr. Jenkins recently attended an executive committee meeting of the association held at Texas Wesleyan College in Fort Worth. He said the committee made plans and arrangements for the annual meeting of the Association of Texas Colleges in Houston next March. The 50-year old association "is an agency in Texas which accredits colleges, thereby assuring the student of transfer of credits from a member college to another college," said Dr. Jenkins. Eighty-nine colleges and universities have membership in the association. Dr. Jenkins also served as vice-president of the association in 1956.

New Geology Club Elects Charles Smith President

Charles Smith of Dallas, sophomore paleontology major, is president of the newly formed geology club, the Earth Science Club.

Smith was one of the promoters in organizing the new club. He is a graduate of Sunset High School in Dallas and transferred here from the University of Texas last year when his parents moved to Tyler.

Other officers elected at the first organizational meeting are John Betts of Winona, vice-president; Harriet Stokes of Tyler, recording secretary-treasurer; and Jimmy Luce of Tyler, corresponding secretary and reporter. All officers are geology majors.

The Earth Science Club meets the first and third Thursdays of each month from 7-10 p.m. in Room 114. Dues are 50 cents per month.

Purpose of the new club, according to Francis Haley, geology instructor and sponsor of the group, is to "acquaint students outside the club with the fundamentals of general geology through club activities."

"We hope the club will be an incentive to its members to reach further into geology, and to advance in knowledge of the science," he added.

One of the first projects the group plans to acquaint students with their activities is to arrange a display in one of the glassed in corridor cases.

3 Students Work For Tyler Papers

Three journalism majors are on the payroll as cub reporters of the Courier-Times and The Morning Telegraph. Mary Ann Seamon, Lanny Money, and Larry Smith are the journalism majors working for the city papers.

Mary Ann writes a column of TJC news for the Courier-Times each Thursday. Students and organizations wishing publicity in the Tyler paper should come by Roome 214 to contact Mary Ann.

Smith, of Grand Saline, has covered football games this fall for some of the surrounding towns. He will continue to cover some of the area basketball games. He works under the direction of the head of the sports staff, Mack Owens.

BARRENTINE IS VICE PRESIDENT

Jimmy Phipps Becomes 58-59 Band President

One of the lead trombone players in the Apache band, Jimmy Phipps, has been elected president of the band for the 58-59 school year. Phipps, besides being president, is student council representative for the band and all-college favorite this year. In Tyler High School he was band quarter-master and also president of the senior class in 1957.

Vice-president of the band this year is first chair clarinet player, Paul Barrentine, known to the band as "Lover." Barrentine was secretary of the sophomore class of Canton High School, president of the junior class, and president of the band his senior year at Canton.

The Apache band consists of about 70 members with the boys dominating, since there are only 15 girls. Eddie Fowler, director, said it was his largest band.

Some of the varied duties of the president consist of presiding over the band during the official meetings and taking charge of the band when Fowler is not present.

Phipps' first experience as student director came last Wednesday in a performance at the Rotary Club at the Blackstone Hotel, while Fowler was attending a band clinic. Phipps took from 17 to 20 boys and one girl to play for the Rotary Club. The group

America Stresses Individuality

The unfair comparison between Russian and American educational standards made when the first Sputnik was launched over a year ago is still current.

When two objects are being compared, the strengths of one should not be matched with the faults of the other. Yet this is exactly what the pros and cons of Russian and American systems of education have done.

The strength of Soviet education lies in the attitude of the students, an unnatural attitude drilled into each child at an early age. From their early childhood, Russian students are told that they must learn for the "good of the state," not of the individual.

Besides student attitude, there is a difference in the academic field. Into their 10-year public school program, the Russians pour courses in math, physics (sciences are gaining particular emphasis), chemistry, biology, astronomy, Russian language and literature, a foreign language, and history.

Again the weakness lies in attitude toward the curriculum. Students are urged to think only in terms of material presented. Thought in theory is not encouraged.

In America, students are invited to question new concepts. They may often hear a teacher say, "Here are the various beliefs and ideas, choose the one with which you agree, or simply think of your own, don't take my word for it."

All Americans are familiar with the somewhat rigid periodical examinations school children take. Through these examinations progressive records of the child's improvement are obtained.

The Russian public school system provides for final exams, written and oral, given only at the end of the seventh and tenth (the final) year of school.

After a month-long tour of Russia, United States Commissioner of Education Lawrence G. Derthick returned with this statement:

"I could never recommend the Soviet educational system for our youth. It is based on a philosophy that is abhorrent to us: a belief that the individual exists primarily, for the good of the state. Furthermore, the Soviet system does not have the potential for real education that ours does."

Evidently America is interested in developing that potential. "Better Schools" reports that a recent Gallup Poll "revealed that education ranked next to the top in interest among millions of American newspaper readers."

Look magazine predicts six results from demands on U. S. education: 1) Pupils will be grouped according to abilities. 2) There will be a consolidation of school districts. 3) A great number of changes will be made in curriculum so advanced subjects will be offered earlier. 4) The school year will be longer. 5) Nonacademic courses will be reduced, but not eliminated. 6) Federal aid to education will be increased.

Whatever changes are wrought by a changing world, American democracy cannot afford for U. S. school systems to turn out students whose only individuality is in their fingerprints. C. M.cW.

Basketball season got off to a surprising start Monday night when over 25 band members showed up with their instruments to cheer the team on during time outs.

It was just a way to "show the team they are not being neglected while the football boys are in Boise," Larry Smith, spokesman for the group, said.

"We hope the student body will come out and back the basketball team as they have football this year," he said.

With holidays beginning this afternoon, the "let's go home" mood has been prevalent on campus. Even some of the teachers have the "bug."

Mrs. Mary Wallace, counseling director, said she plans to drive to Cisco to visit her mother and sister living there. She will leave Tyler sometime Friday and return Sunday afternoon, she said.

Herman Crow, history and government instructor, will return to his home in Alvarado for the holidays, he said. He will spend part of his time in Fort Worth, he said.

Mrs. Sammie Smyrl, math instructor, plans to attend the Texas-A&M game in Austin, she said.

Francis Haley, geology instructor, said he would "stay home and study." He is taking a geography course at Stephen F. Austin on Saturdays, and another geography course by correspondence, so "I'll have plenty to do," he said.

Eight first and second year Spanish students, and Paul Grier, foreign language instructor, made a trip to Dallas Friday afternoon to see the Spanish movies, "Historia de un amor" and "Flor de cana."

Glenn Isbell, junior journalism major at North Texas State Teachers College, has pledged Sigma Delta Chi fraternity. The journalism honor society requires a 2.5 average in journalism for membership.

Eddie (Pinky) Fowler, registrar returned Thursday from the meeting of the Texas Association of Collegiate Registrars held in Fort Worth.

Object of the convention was "to see what others were doing in the registration procedures and to learn by this association," he said.

Dormitories Mark New Phase

The college will enter a new phase in its 33rd year of growth next fall when it opens the women's and men's housing units.

The two new, air-conditioned dormitories, now under construction, will be the first housing facilities the college has had other than the athletic dormitory, which houses 50 men.

With the 50 vacancies in each dormitory filled, student activities will be greatly affected. The 150 students living on campus will swell the attendance of dances, clubs, basketball games, and library study nights.

And since "for every boy there's a girl," and vice versa, the college should begin to notice the difference in student life.

Students will come to TJC from a wider range of cities, giving the campus a new week-ends atmosphere.

"Campus life" will mean community life for the 150 students who live and work so closely each day.

The dorms can make "going to college" more than a dream for some students, for cost will be held to a minimum—only $60 per month for room and board.

The remodeled dining hall behind the Tee-Pee will serve both new dormitories and the athletes. All students will be permitted to buy their noon meals there. Students who are tired of eating sandwiches and fritos for lunch will find the new dining hall a luxury.

The tiresome morning ordeal of catching a school bus to ride and endless miles to school will end for some of the students now living in the TJC district who decide to move into town.

It's almost enough to make the present sophomores wish they could be back on the Reservation again next year.

Thanksgiving For What?

Thanksgiving—with its two elements, "Thanks" and "giving" expresses a spirit of mind, heart, and soul. It is the blending of the joy of giving with the humility of gratitude.

Thanks—we say—thanks for what? For turkey and all the trimmings, for bowl games and Apache victories, for the school holiday.

It will be easy to give thanks for much more than the school holiday if we remember that the holiday we enjoy is one from a free college in a free nation of opportunities and if we look around us and see others in more difficult circumstance than we.

"Giving" involves sharing with others. Students have a special opportunity to share by participating in the campaign for the World University Service relief program next spring.

We also have an opportunity to share locally by participating in the "White Christmas" for the Sunset Home next month. On the and local TCU, we can participate in the Christmas Seal Drive now underway.

CHURCH, MORALS IMPORTANT

TJC Views Juvenile Delinquency

By HOWARD MARSH

The influence of the church and personal acceptance of the responsibility of setting good moral examples can do more to curb juvenile delinquency than any other force, think students and teachers, according to a recent poll.

ERNEST SHINN: "Students can help juvenile delinquency by bringing up their own children in the church."

LOUIS H. BOND agrees that "most of problems can be solved by the church if people will attend church and seek the help of God."

He adds that setting a good example of behavior on the campus and in town is necessary.

DOUGLAS STELTER: "Parents should have a strict hand on children. If parents do not care what their children do why should the children care? If children are given a decent home and love there will be less delinquency." Stelter also thinks the church plays a major role in curbing delinquency.

JOHN COPELAND: "The student should have respect for others and thus by his example, the younger age would follow."

VIRGINIA MORGAN agrees that "students who want to help curb juvenile delinquency can always set an example wherever they are and whatever they are doing."

JIM BROWN: "I believe since we are older, and supposedly more mature, we could through our actions, thoughts and words have some influence on the kids younger than us.

"If we ourselves try to act as adults with adult responsibilities, I'm pretty positive the ones younger would act the same way."

WENDELL PRUETT agrees that "setting a good example at all times" will help curb juvenile delinquency. He also offers another suggestion, "Co-operate in sponsoring activities for youth who have more free time than things to do."

LARRY GORUM: "Before we start helping others, we must solve our own problems. If everyone takes it upon himself to say no to the things that seem to lead him to do what he knows is not right, we have taken a great step in the right direction."

GARY WILLIAMS: "If we strive for a better understanding of others, we can help in some small way to curb juvenile delinquency."

ELIZABETH BALFOUR points out that our example should show that "one does not have to be a delinquent to be a part of the gang. The mere fact that we are college students should make us want to act in such a way as to prove we are 'growing up'."

Instructors agree that curbing juvenile delinquency requires each individual's setting an example.

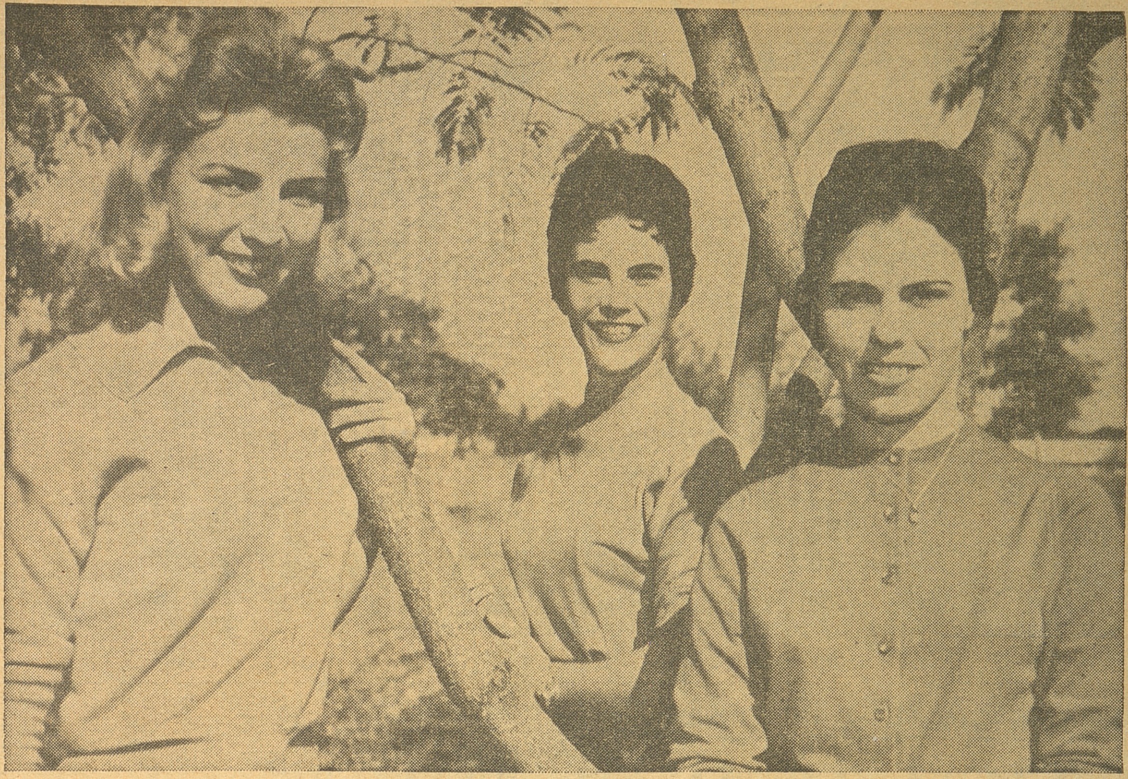
PAUL GRIER, language teacher: "The most important factor in one person making another good is being sure his own conduct is above reproach. In the high school and college age, hero worship is strong. High school students may watch the way college students behave for their example.

"Citizens of Tyler," Grier added, "should stimulate PTA activities and they in turn should stimulate public schools to put emphasis on moral training as well as knowledge."

LAWRENCE BIRDSONG, speech and drama: "Juvenile delinquency can be best combated by each student assuming more of a sense of responsibility to others. More rules and punishment alone will not overcome the importance of each person feeling the responsibility of society from within."

J. C. HENDERSON, chemistry and biology instructor: "One way would be to speak up on questions of decent conduct, to stand up and be counted. More than they realize, college students are in a position to assert leadership."

MRS. MARY WALLACE, director of guidance and counseling: offers three manners in which students can help curb delinquency by being responsible for their own behavior: (1) watching the company they keep, (2) going to the right places, and (3) reading the best literature.



TRIO OF SWEETHEARTS . . .

BUTLER, BRYANT, SHARP

3 Campus Groups Choose Sweethearts

Three freshmen are sweetheart choices for two majority-male and one all-male organizations.

The sweethearts are blonde-haired, green-eyed Susan Sharp, Troup, representing Kappa Sigma Lambda; brown-eyed Rosilind Butler, Mt. Pleasant, representing the Tribesmen; and petite, brown-haired Mary Jane Bryant, Hawkins, representing the band.

The three have been recognized for their beauty and brains before. Susan was elected most beautiful at Troup and was FFA sweetheart.

Rosilind served as "Miss Mt. Pleasant of 1957" and was chosen All-School Favorite and Basketball Queen. She was also National Guard Battalion Sweetheart.

Mary Jane was elected cutest in the Hawkins senior class and was Halloween Queen.

They have been active in their various clubs all during their high school careers. Susan was historian of the Homemaking Club, a member of the school paper's staff, majorette, and a member of Who's Who, an organization based on scholastic achievement.

Rosilind was a member of several clubs and organizations and edited a Teens in the Times column in the local paper. On several occasions she represented her city in the Mineola Watermelon Festival and the Gilmer Yamboree. She was East Texas Day Queen at the 1958 State Fair, representing Mt. Pleasant.

Mary Jane was a member of the Hawkins Student Council for three years and became secretary in her senior year.

2 Students To Attend Texas MSM Conference

Sandra Rodgers and Gary Williams of Van will attend the Texas Methodist Student Movement Conference Nov. 28-30 at Huston-Tillotson College in Austin.

"Long Division" will be the theme of the conference.

The conference is designed "to bring Methodist students together and to examine some of the division which has long been a problem: man from God, man from man, one nation from another nation, one race from another race," according to conference material.

Mrs. Jackson Tells Origin Of Thanksgiving

Mrs. Gloria Jackson, history and government instructor, gave a brief historical account of the origin of Thanksgiving at a recent combination social and business meeting of the NEA (Future Teachers) at the Church of Christ youth center.

The group elected Fay Shaw as beauty candidate to represent NEA in the five-most beautiful girls campaign now underway.

Several members gave typical Thanksgiving prayers.

James Fife, director of Church of Christ Bible Chair, gave the benediction. Refreshments were served.

Newman-Vincentian Club Invites 5 Clubs To Dance

The Newman-Vincentian Club has invited similar organizations from five East Texas towns to be its guests at a Harvest Moon Dance over the Thanksgiving holidays, announced Betty Brown, Newman-Vincentian secretary.

Catholic youth groups from Palestine, Henderson, Kilgore, Gladewater, and Longview received invitations.

Besides members of these clubs and the Tyler organizations, Tyler residents who are members of Newman clubs at other colleges have been invited to attend the dance, Betty said.

Scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 29, the dance will be in the Knights of Columbus Hall, 208 W. 9th Street in Tyler, beginning at 7 p.m.

"Although the dance is primarily a social function, it will give members and officers of the various groups an opportunity to become acquainted and make tentative plans for a collective business meeting," said Mary Ann Seamon, president of the Tyler club.

Chairman of committees working on the dance are Mary Ann Eltife, decorations; Janet Johnson, refreshments; Yvonne Kamel, entertainment; and Betty Brown and Mary Ann Seamon, invitations.

There will be no admission charge.

Wesley Players Select Modern Morality Play

"House by the Stable," a modern morality play by Charles Williams, has been selected for presentation by the Wesley Players, a Methodist Student Movement drama group, according to the Reverend Arthur Pry, director.

The play will be presented sometime next semester, he said.

"Anyone interested in doing religious drama in terms of staging, production, or acting is welcomed to contact me, or Jean Lawhorn, president of the MSM," said Pry.

The production, Pry said, is a "means by which the Gospel can be preached."

Apaches To Play 26-Game Schedule

The TJC Apaches have released a 26-game schedule for the 1958 basketball season, plus two tournaments. The Tribe will enter the Moberly Tournament in Missouri Dec. 18-19, and the Regional Tournament, Feb. 24-26. The site has not been determined.

Tyler had a seasonal record of 19 wins against eight losses last year and went to the semi-finals in the Regional Tournament before falling.

The schedule this year calls for 13 home games and 13 away from Apacheland. The Apaches will play games in Waco, Jacksonville, Athens, Houston, Denton, Carthage, Paris, Kilgore Texarkana, Bryan, and Shreveport, La.

This year, the Tribe will face two of their biggest rivals, Lon Morris and Kilgore. Lon Morris, probably the strongest rival of the two, split games with the Apaches last fall. The Bearcats took a 77-70 thriller in Jacksonville, but had a 19-game winning streak snapped in Gentry Gym to the tune of 88-75 before the largest crowd of the season.

The Black and Gold team played the Kilgore Rangers only once and lost an 83-77 game in the semi-final tilt of the Regional Tournament played in Kilgore.

Kilgore is the defending National Junior College champion in basketball circles. The Rangers defeated four opponents to gain the national crown in Kansas last season.

Also on the cage list will be four university freshman teams. Playing on home-to-home basis, the squad will face SMU, Baylor, Houston and North Texas. Of these four, the SMU Ponies have always proved to be the toughest to beat.

THANKSGIVING DAY CLASH

TJC Tribe Meets Unbeaten Boise

In what is expected to be a "good, tough, hard ball game." from Coach Floyd Wagstaff, a possible trip to the Junior Rose Bowl in California or a trip to the Mississippi Hospitality Bowl lies on the outcome on the TJC-Boise Junior College championship clash Turkey Day.

The Apaches, who have a 9-1 seasonal record to their credit, ran into a wild band of Bronchos who have rolled to nine straight victories and the number one rating in the North.

Of these nine games for Boise one game ended with the Ponies in the lead, 75-6.

The squadmen were due to arrive in Boise around 12 noon yesterday. A workout was held yesterday, and another one is on tap for this afternoon.

Because of the cold weather in Idaho this time of year, the ground is in freezing condition and tennis shoes and soft-leather sole shoes may become an order for the team.

The boys are staying at the Owyhwee Inn in Bois and are due to depart from the northern state Friday morning. They are expected at Tyler's Pound's Field around noon.

Texarkana Junior College is defending Nationals Champions, having won that crown last fall from Fairfield, Neb.

Out of the 32 squadmen making the trip, two are sure not to play because of injuries and two more will possibly not see any action.

Don Keasler and John Toole, who have been out with injuries most of the season, will not see action in the championship clash.

Leon Fuller and Lanny Money, who were injured in the TJC-Kilgore game, may also be sidelined. Both Fuller and Money run the right halfback slot.

Fuller is suffering from a sprained ankle and Money has a bruised knee.

Larry Bowers and Ted Jolly are expected to fill the vacant spots at halfback.

The rest of the team is in good condition as far as injuries are concerned.

The aspects of physical conditioning has been taken care of also. The Tribe has been going through one of its toughest weeks of workouts in order to be in top shape to cope with the sudden change in climate.

Kick-off time for the Junior National Championship clash on Turkey Day is 2:15 Rocky Mountain Standard Time. Tyler time will be 3:15 p.m.

5 JC Bowl Games On Tap In November, December

Five bowl games are on tap for junior colleges throughout the nation in November and December.

The big bowl game every junior college dreams of playing in will be held in Pasadena, Calif. The Junior Rose Bowl has not made the selections of teams, but will make their choice immediately after Thanksgiving.

Arlington State is the defending Junior Rose Bowl champion, winning it two straight years.

The National Junior College Championship Bowl game will be played this year in Boise, Idaho. Playing for the title of National Champions will be Tyler Junior College, number one in the South, and Boise Junior College, ranked first in the North.

The game will be played Thanksgiving Day, with the winner standing a chance to go to the Rose Bowl.

Texarkana Junior College is defending National Champ, having defeated Fairbanks, Neb., for the title in Texarkana last fall.

Gulfport, Miss., will be the scene of the Hospitality Bowl clash, Saturday, Dec. 6. Only one team has been named for the game. Pearl River Junior College will be host team. The other squad is due to be selected probably following Thanksgiving.

Wharton and Kilgore are two Texas teams being considered for the tilt, with Wharton's Pioneers holding a possible edge over the Rangers.

Tyler's Apaches are defending bowl champs, having beaten Copiah-Lincoln there last year.

Longview will host the annual Industrial Bowl, Saturday night, Dec. 6. Henderson County Junior College will meet the Del Mar Vikings in the second Industrial Championship clash.

The Kilgore Rangers are defending champions of the Industrial bowl. They won from the Cameron Aggies last year.

The first annual Pine Bowl game will be played in Texarkana Saturday, Nov. 29. Tangling for the title will be Texarkana Junior College and Wingate Junior College of North Calodina.

Education Exes May Have Largest Organization

The Ex-Education Students' Association, organized during homecoming, has the potential of being the largest ex-studnet organization at TJC.

Any ex who was enrolled in an education class at TJC is a potential member.

"It is possible," said Mrs. Mary Wallace, sponsor of the organization, "that over 50 per cent of TJC's ex-students could join the Association."

Halfback Ned Jolly Cops Apaches Rushing Honors

By LARRY SMITH

Ned Jolly is the leading rusher on the Apache squad this season. The left halfback edged out Leon Fuller for the title.

Jolly also has a good chance to cop the Texas Eastern Conference leading ground gainer title if Texarkana's Don Crone fails to gain 70 yards against Ranger Junior College.

Jolly has a rushing record of 470 yards for an average of 5.7 per carry. Fuller, right halfback, is second with 437 yards and an average of 4.9A. Fullback Larry Corley gained some 384 yards for third place and an average of 3.5.

In the passing department, Richard Staton is leading with 44 completions in 76 tries. Staton has passed for 596 yards. Jimmy Sizemore is second with 19 completions in 38 tries for 283 yards.

Fuller is the leading pass receiver for the Apaches. He has caught 15 passes for a total of 255 yards. Monroe Brewer has 14 catches to his credit for 263 yards. John Toole, injured earlier in the season, is third. Toole has caught 11 passes for 146 yards.

Don Keasler shows the best punting average for the season with nine punts for an average of 42.0 yards. Keasler received a broken foot in the TJC-Henderson County game and has been out of action during the remaining football season. Jolly took over the top punting job after this and finished with an average of 38.4 yards in 36 tries.

Billy Black was third with two punts for a 32.6 yard average.

Scoring-wise, Corley was top with 81 points. Corley scored 11 touchdowns and 15 extra points for the number one spot.

Second was Sizemore with 26 points, which included four touchdowns and two extra points. Brewer posted 20 points with three touchdowns and two points after. Staton scored three TD's for a total of 18 points.

Gridders End Season With 9-1 Mark

The Apaches finished their 1958 regular football season with a 9-1 record and the number one rating in the nation.

The Apaches suffered their only loss to the Texarkana Bulldogs, 9-6.

TJC traveled to West Texas for their first game of the season where they defeated the tough San Angelo Bobcats, 28-8.

A four-week home stand was then opened with the University of Wichita Freshmen and a 32-0 victory. Arlington State's mighty Rebels invaded the Apache camp the following week and had their 14-game winning streak broken by the score of 18-6.

The Warriors then took on the Cardinals from Henderson County and were victorious 36-0. In their first Texas Eastern Conference game, the Apaches dropped the Paris Dragons 26-6.

Taking their second out-of-town trip of the year, The Apaches met the Cameron Aggies in Lawton, Okla. The Aggies were leading 14-6 at half-time, but wound up on the short end of a 33-14 TJC win.

Tyler had their six-game winning streak broken the next Saturday night in Texarkana. Playing before a sell-out crowd, the Bulldogs posted a 9-6 upset to take over the number one spot in national ratings from the Tribe.

Playing two games in three days, TJC defeated the Ranger Rangers, 36-8, in Rose Stadium, and then traveled to Corsicana and won from the Navarro Bulldogs, 18-0.

In their final regular-season game, the Apaches played host to arch-rival Kilgore. A full stadium of some 13,000 witnessed a 28-12 TJC win. With this victory the Apaches regained their top ranking in the nation.

Apaches Rated Nation's Top Team In Final NJCAA Poll

In the final 1958 junior college poll, the TJC Apaches were rated by the National Junior College Athletic Association as the number one team in the nation.

The Apaches took over the top spot, as well as the number one team in the South, with their impressive 28-12 victory over Kilgore, ending the season with a 9-1 record.

Texarkana dropped to second place in the South, with Wingate of North Carolina, Wharton County and Arlington State following in that order.

Two new teams made their first appearances on the poll. La Junta, Colo., and Harvey, Ill., were selected as number four and five in the North. Grand Rapids, Mich., finished in second place and representing Kansas was Dodge City in third.

Texarkana Trips Paris To Throw TEC In 3-Way Tie

The Texarkana Junior College Bulldogs threw the Texas Eastern Conference into a three-way tie for the championship with a 11-10 victory over Paris, Nov. 15.

The win gave Texarkana a 2-1 loop record and a tie with Tyler and Kilgore. Paris ended the season with a 0-4 record.

Playing their final game of the year, the Bulldogs had to come from behind twice to edge the fighting Dragons. The winning points, which gave the Bulldogs a 9-1 record, came in the final quarter on a 20-yard field goal off the toe of Steve Marlon.

The Dragons took a 7-0 lead in the first period when End Keith Gerals took a 23-yard pass from Calvin Pope for the score. The PAT was kicked, was ruled good.

Texarkana came right back in the same quarter to score on a one-yard plunge by Halfback Alvin Hitchcock. He also ran the extra points over for an 8-7 lead.

Midway in the third quarter, Paris took a brief 10-8 lead on a 15-yard field goal by Pope.

Ex-Lettermen May Hold Mid-Winter Meetings

Woody Tunnell, secretary of the Ex-Lettermen's Association, said there is a "possibility of having ex-Lettermen's meetings sometime during basketball season—perhaps with some of the bigger games like Lon Morris."

INVALUABLE MEN—Joe Floyd, left, and Lawrence Jackson are co-managers of the Apache football team. They travel with the team and repair the broken equipment, which includes uniforms, shoes, helmets, pads, and various other odds and ends. Floyd, from Port Neches, and Jackson, a Livingston lad, also do the football laundry. During basketball season, Jackson will serve as manager. The two boys will make the trip to Idaho with the squadmen.

Students Attend Meeting At Lon Morris College

Five students and their sponsor, James F. Barnes, government and economics instructor, attended the East Texas Regional Junior College Citizenship Conference last Tuesday at Lon Morris College.

Those making the trip besides Barnes were Freddie Head, student council president, Larry Smith, Ann Williams, Patsy Brown, and Mary Ann Seamon.

Colleges represented were Kilgore Junior College, Lon Morris College, Paris Junior College, Texarkana Junior College, Jacksonville Baptist College, Panola Junior College, Navarro Junior College, LeTourneau Tech, and Southwest Bible Institute.

Delegates attended discussion groups led by several of the junior colleges. They were School Spirit and Morale, Texarkana; Student Behavior, On and Off Campus, Lon Morris; Scholastic Achievement and Student-Teacher Relations, Southwest Bible Institute; and Projects, Money Making, Tributaries, Paris.

Dr. J. W. Reynolds, junior college consultant and professor at the University of Texas, was speaker at the opening session. He praised the East Texas region, one of the five in Texas, as the strongest in the state.

He attributed this strength to his region's policy of not limiting attendance at the meeting to student council members but choosing delegates from the student body at large.

Reynolds founded the citizenship conference which had its origin in Tyler in 1950.

Delegates voted to invite Temple Junior College and Jacksonville College to become permanent members of the regional organization.

A sextet, part of the college choir; a trio who call themselves Two Hearts and a Beat; and a dramatic actor, Fredric Glen, who portrayed the madman of "Madman's Manuscript" from Pickwick Papers comprised this talent.

Panola Junior College offered to host the spring meeting on their campus.

Pengra Rates TV Tops In Communications Field

Marshall Pengra, general manager of KLTV, believes "TV today is the greatest factor in mass communications."

Pengra, who spoke Monday to the journalism class, said that in the average American home the TV set is turned on six hours a day.

In only six years, Pengra said, TV has come into 85 per cent of the American homes—something which took 25 years for radio to accomplish.

During the six hours, this 85 per cent hears news casts and gets information from documentary and dramatic shows, he said.

Pengra emphasized the importance of documentary programs on TV as a means of obtaining information the people would probably not get otherwise. As an example, he used the show, "Hemo the Magnificent," presented by Telephone Time, in which the blood was explained in understandable terms.

"News is not our primary business," he said, "but TV gives adequate news coverage." Pengra estimated one hour of the 17-hour day at KLTV is used for news reports.

In discussing the expense of TV advertising, he said that "surprisingly enough" it is the least expensive form of advertising because it reaches a greater number of people.

WeltyMcCullough Explains Printing Process Of Papers

Welty McCullough, composing room superintendent of T. B. Butler Publishing Co., explained the processes and "peeves" that attend the actual printing of news. An experienced printer himself, he brought his practical knowledge along with samples of machine-set type to the journalism class last Thursday.

In working with the newspaper, one has to be very careful with his spelling. The dictrionary is the answer. A good reporter, said McCullough, always looks up words he is not sure of. if a misspelled word is sent to the composing room, it is not the fault of the composing room if the word is misspelled in print.

When similar sounding names are misspelled "such as Stevens and Stephens" the reporter is at fault.

When the printer cuts or "bobs" a story, he said, it is the writer's responsibility if something of importance has been deleted.

When the news writer fails to meet his deadline, the printer will probably be working overtime.

Editing the Pow Wow, McCullough indicated, poses an exceptional problem. It "has to be sandwiched-in between editions of the two regular publications."

In reference to the writer's use of symbols, he said, "Make sure the marks are plain and clear. Any unnecessary marks on the copy tend to confust the printers. The neater the copy, the easier it is for the printers to set."

Cook Lists Duties Of Civil Engineer

Building bridges, railways, and tunnels, were among the numerous examples Assistant City Engineer John Cook listed as duties of the civil engineer.

In an address to the Engineers Club on what is expected of a civil engineer, Cook told the group that a civil engineer should be a stable thinker—have a lot of horse sense. "The art of directing the power of nature for the aid of man" was Cook's definition of civil engineering.

In discussing the history of the civil engineer, he named some of the more common duties of the various kinds of civil engineers. He cited a municipal engineer—his main field—as being expected to know how to design public facilities and know the responsibilities to the state laws.

A general requirement of any civil engineer, Cook said, is to "be able to see the need and the opportunity of his job." Cook is an A&M graduate.

Paul Pool, vice-president of the Engineers' Club, introduced Cook.

Nelta Weeks Receives 1st Barbee Scholarship

By TERENCE SWIFT

Nelta Weeks, a freshman from Chapel Hill, is enrolled on the first Wallace Barbee scholarship awarded a TJC student.

Nelta is studying Nursing Arts and plans to get a BS degree in nursing. She intends to become a professional nurse, an occupation which requires maintaining good grades in her course.

Courses included in her first-year schedule are English, chemistry, biology, nursing, psychology, pharmacology, and home economics.

Nelta graduated from Chapel Hill High school third in her class scholastically. She was elected to the National Honor Society. She also received the DAR award, an award given on scholastic and merit ability.

While at Chapel Hill she worked on the yearbook staff, the school paper, and she was active in the speech club.

The scholarship given by Barbee, who is also a graduate of Chapel Hill and TJC, goes annually to the senior at Chapel Hill voted most likely to succeed. Barbee was voted most likely to succeed when he graduated.

The scholarship is awarded at commencement each spring. The senior class selects the recipient from three candidates nominated by the faculty at Chapel Hill.
